CRETACEOUS (CAMPANIAN) BIVALVES OF THE COFFEE SAND IN MISSISSIPPI ILLUSTRATED

David T. Dockery III, RPG

A new publication on Cretaceous bivalves from the Coffee Sand in Mississippi was added to the MDEQ Office of Geology website on Friday May 8, 2020, as Open File Report OF-319. The link to the publication is below.

https://geology.deq.ms.gov/surface/files/OF-319 Cretaceous Campanian Bivalves of the Coffee Sand in Mississippi Illustrated.pdf

Mississippi has perhaps the best-preserved fossils of the Campanian Stage of the Cretaceous Period of any place in the world. The only significant text in the book is the introductory paragraphs on the second page as shown below. So, if you are one who had rather skim the pictures than read the article, this book is for you. Go to the link and find some of the bizarre clams that lived during the time of the dinosaurs.

New Coffee Sand localities during the construction of the Natchez Trace Parkway along the Twenty Mile Creek Overlook in Lee County (MGS locality 128) in 1976 and a borrow pit in 1982 (MGS locality 129) exposed rich beds of beautifully preserved fossil mollusks. Mary Dockery (shown at bottom) is collecting fossil shells at MGS locality 129 in the summer of 1982. Bulk loads of sediment from this site were taken to MDEQ Office of Geology's Northwest Street office and sieved for fossils. Many of the gastropods from these two localities were published in 1993 in MDEQ Office of Geology Bulletin 129 entitled The Streptoneuran Gastropods, Exclusive of the Stenoglossa, of the Coffee Sand (Campanian) of Northeastern Mississippi. Bulletin 129 gives much more detail on this fossil mollusk horizon referred to as the Chapelville fossiliferous horizon and is available on our website under publications.

The following illustrated pages of Cetaceous bivalves is systematically arranged according to the MolluscaBase website (as it was while this work was underway) into the following subclasses listed in alphabetical order:

Subclass Heterodonta Subclass Palaeoheterodonta Subclass Protobranchia Subclass Pteriomorphia

You might want a framed one for your own office. The one in my office has glass and a metal frame, and it cost $400 and it does not look as good as the ones we are giving to the schools. Call Owen 510-6224 if you want one for your office for $150. Duncan, Mike, Chris, Dave, Bob Randy, Seb., Kevin, Ken, Craig, Patrick, Robert.
